Master's degree - Wikipedia A master's degree (from Latin magister) is an academic degree awarded by universities or colleges upon completion of a course of study demonstrating mastery or a high-order overview of a specific field of study or area of professional practice. A master's degree normally requires previous study at the bachelor's level, either as a separate degree or as part of an integrated course. Thesis Preparation - Theses and Dissertations - LibGuides ... Various citation styles are available. Your faculty thesis or dissertation advisor will determine the appropriate style for your work. If you are using MS Word, the EndNote citation management software (available free to KAUST students as a service of the University Library) can simplify the task of gathering, organizing, and formatting your references in most any popular style. Thesis statement - Wikipedia A thesis statement usually appears at the middle or end of the introductory paragraph of a paper, and it offers a concise summary of the main point or claim of the essay, research paper, etc. It is usually expressed in one sentence, and the statement may be reiterated elsewhere. It contains the topic and the controlling idea. There are two types of thesis statements: direct and indirect.
